UCOFA DIRECTOR MESSAGE

Dear Ulster County Seniors:

February, although gloomy and cold, offers a lot of things to ponder! It holds President’s Day, Lincoln’s birthday, and Black History Month! Abraham Lincoln, the 16th President was successful in preventing a succession, ended slavery as it was, but had to endure a very bloody civil war, and wrote documents that last to this day, helping African-Americans begin to achieve an equality in society. Black History month began 53 years ago, has gone through name changes, but the fact that it is celebrated in the US, Canada and the United Kingdom shows its importance in parts of the world. One of the most famous Black Americans was Frederick Douglass, a former enslaved person who escaped slavery, fled to NY and Massachusetts, and became an orator and leader in the abolitionist movement before slavery was ended. As for President’s Day, it is now a celebration of all American presidents, although it started as a remembrance of Washington and Lincoln. I hope it all makes us proud to be Americans!

February is also a time to start thinking about your garden: what to plant, and on a nicer day, start readying the soil. Spring is just around the corner! Soil prep is very important as is early starts to seeds, which can be germinated in homemade containers (milk cartons cut in half with good soil inside) and left outside each day – the plastic of the container will keep the heat in, let the light in, and protect the seedlings from colder temperatures. I used many successfully in starting seeds last year. A good recycling project! Or, seedlings do well planted in the spaces in cardboard egg cartons, which then after sprouting, can be planted directly in the soil. Even the eggshells can be used!

Valentine’s Day is also celebrated (see? It’s a busy month) in February, and although many older folks may no longer have a partner or spouse, doing a loving thing for someone else is always in the spirit of St. Valentine, a martyred saint who allegedly gave sight to a blind girl, and signed a note to her the night before his execution as “from your Valentine,” a phrase that endured and was expanded upon throughout history.

Winter driving tips for Seniors

Make sure your tires are up to snuff: Be sure you have the proper tires if you need them. There's no shame in choosing to stay in during bad weather conditions. Arriving at your destination isn't guaranteed when severe winter weather is at play. Consider the risks before you insert your key, turn on the ignition, and begin driving.

Know when to slow down: Increase your distance when driving behind the car you are following and reduce your speed. Be patient and accept the fact you will need more time to arrive at your destination. Many serious incidents happen with just the slightest covering of snow on the road. Stopping your vehicle in the winter snow requires more distance because of reduced traction.

Build a preparedness kit: Have your car battery tested so you're not stranded in the cold with a dead battery. Make sure your tires have enough air in them, with adequate tread. In case of emergency, store flashlights, extra batteries, first aid kit, warm clothes a blanket, and other essentials for seniors in the trunk.

Test those brakes: Make sure your brakes are working properly and test-drive your car to see how long it takes for your vehicle to come to a complete stop when on an icy or watery road. Avoid abrupt braking, unnecessary lane changes and acceleration as you will lose tire traction. If your vehicle is equipped with four wheel drive, shift into that gear for wet or icy conditions.

Time your trips for the daytime: If possible, try to avoid driving at dusk or in the dark. Driving in bad weather conditions can be very fatiguing. In a heavy winter storm it's especially important to stay put as your visibility will be impaired.

Practice winter driving: If you're nervous about driving during the winter, it may be worthwhile to practice. Go to an empty car lot and attempt to make your car skid on purpose. Try slamming on the brakes and see how it feels to skid and turn until you regain control of the car. The more comfortable you are maintaining control of your car, the better winter driver you'll be.

Tips for Personal Self-Care & Healthy Aging

When people think of self-care, they might picture a person drinking a glass of wine in a large bubble bath or cozing up in an armchair with a cup of tea. Self-care is a conscious effort to take care of yourself so that you can be well and healthy, be there for others, and do all the things you need to do. It can be easy to get into a routine of work, caregiving, or errands that we often get into a mindset of putting ourselves last. Self-care means that you are taking care of yourself so that you can be fueled and energized to get all these things done. Here are a few tips to get started:

1. Get Enough Vitamin D. When you're feeling down, it can be tempting to stay inside and enjoy the comfort of the couch or your bed. However, spending time outside can do wonders for both physical and mental health. There is evidence being surrounded by Vitamin D, fresh air, trees, and nature can reduce stress, increase productivity, and offer certain health benefits for older adults, like enhanced cognitive and bone health.
 - Go to a local pool to swim or relax (don't forget sunscreen!)
 - Start gardening at home
 - Go on a hike at local trails or nature preserves
2. Catch Some Zs. Getting a full night's sleep is one of the most important things you can do to take care of yourself. It can help boost the immune system, lower the risk for chronic health concerns, reduce stress, and improve overall mood. It can seem like a chore to get to bed at a decent hour every night, but it's actually just another form of self-care.
 - Reduce blue light exposure (cell phones and TVs) during the evening and before bed
 - Avoid coffee or soda late in the day
 - Reduce long naps in the afternoon and evening
 - Try to have a set sleep schedule every night
3. Make Plans. Spending time with family and friends is not only a fun activity, but it's also a way of practicing self-care. Many people feel most like themselves when surrounded by people they love.
 - Set up a weekly call with a family member or friend
 - Attend a weekly exercise or art class
 - Volunteer at a local organization
 - Consider an independent living community
4. Take Care of Your Body. While many people don't associate self-care with exercising and eating healthy, taking care of your physical body is essential in taking care of yourself as a whole. Of course, exercising doesn't mean you have to hit the gym at 5:00 A.M. every day. Spending time in nature and socializing with others are natural ways to incorporate more exercise into your life. Furthermore, eating well doesn't mean you have to deprive yourself of the foods you enjoy; it simply means establishing a balanced diet of healthy foods and guilty pleasure foods.
 - Get creative in the kitchen with new ingredients and recipes
 - Visit a local farmer's market to buy fresh produce
 - Find an activity that you love, like yoga, hiking, or dancing
5. Indulge in Something You Love. While it's true that self-care is about sleeping well, eating well, and exercising well—it's also about bubble baths and cups of tea! An essential aspect of self-care is setting aside time for yourself to engage in something you genuinely enjoy. For some, this could be exercising or spending time with friends; for others, it could be curling up with a good book, getting a massage, or baking cookies.

These may seem like surface-level means of caring for yourself, but when practiced in conjunction with taking care of yourself physically and mentally, you'll ensure that you're fully healthy and happy and will be able to live your life more efficiently and effectively.

February is American Heart Month

February is American Heart Month, a time when all people can focus on their cardiovascular health. Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States, but there's a lot you can do to prevent it. Taking time to care for your heart can be challenging as you go about daily life. But it's easier than you think to show your heart the love it deserves each day. Small acts of self-care, like taking walks, getting quality sleep, and cooking healthy meals, help your heart. Research shows that self-care can help you keep your blood pressure in a healthy range and reduce your risk of heart disease and stroke.

What parts of your self-care routine help your heart? Self-care for your heart is really self-care for your whole self. You can improve and protect your health overall when you:

- Get a daily dose of physical activity, such as a brisk, 30-minute walk.
- Cook meals that are low in sodium and unhealthy fats.
- Take your medications as prescribed and keep your medical appointments.
- Sleep 7-8 hours a night.
- Manage stress through, for example, meditation, yoga, a warm bath, or quiet time with a good book or funny movie.
- Try to reach or stay at a healthy weight by moving more and having snacks like fruits and veggies ready to grab when hunger hits.

What's your health status? Part of self-care is knowing your health status. Even during uncertain and busy times, get your blood pressure, blood sugar, and cholesterol levels checked. Talk to your health care provider about your heart health.

What is the correct way to measure blood pressure? Learn the correct way to have your blood pressure taken, whether you're getting it checked at the doctor's office or checking it yourself at home:

- Don't eat or drink anything 30 minutes before you take your blood pressure.
- Empty your bladder before your reading.
- Sit in a comfortable chair with your back supported for at least 5 minutes before your reading.
- Put both feet flat on the ground and keep your legs uncrossed.
- Rest your arm with the cuff on a table at chest height.
- Make sure the blood pressure cuff is snug but not too tight. The cuff should be against your bare skin, not over clothing.
- Do not talk while your blood pressure is being measured.

Garden tips for February

- Give your tools a good cleaning and sharpening.
- Start your first seeds inside for broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, eggplant, head lettuce, onions, and parsley. Most perennial flowers should be started inside by the end of the month as well.
- Force branches of spring-blooming shrubs and trees like pussy willow, forsythia, apple and cherry once buds have begun to swell. Cut on an angle and put indoors in water.
- If you have a cold frame, sow an early crop of spinach and lettuce in it. In fact, you can start spinach in the open ground if snow has melted.

DID YOU KNOW?

©LPI

February was the last month of the year for around 200 years, until the Gregorian calendar designated January the start of the new year.

As we all know, the price of food has reached historic levels in 2022. There are a variety of reasons that include higher fuel and fertilizer costs, higher labor, transportation costs, and supply-chain issues. Statistics show a rise in food costs of 13.5% in 2022.

We can still manage our food budgets to include healthy choices. A pound of ground beef provides protein, some fat, vitamins, and minerals that we all need. Incorporating plant-based proteins and reducing some of the animal protein can save you money. One method is to include dried beans in your meal planning. Dried beans can also be purchased canned and ready to eat. Rinse the beans in a colander under running water to reduce the sodium included in canning process.

| Item | Cost per package | Cost per ounce | Cost per serving |
|--|--------------------|-----------------|-------------------|
| Dried Cannellini Beans (reconstituted) | $3.89 / 12 ounces | $0.32 ($0.13) | $0.39 - 3 ounces |
| Eggs | 4.09 / dozen | $0.34 per egg | $0.34 – 1 egg |
| Ground Beef | $4.99 | $0.42 | $1.26 – 3 ounces |

Some additional tips to save money on groceries:

- Watching weekly sale flyers from grocery stores can help in deciding where the best deals are this week.
- Buying in larger quantities, then freezing or properly storing unused amounts for later can help in saving money.
- Increasing vegetable and whole grain products can help fill you up, provide much needed vitamins, minerals, and fiber for a lower cost than animal products, or convenience foods.
- Purchasing foods in season and local can help reduce transportation costs and assure fresher products.
- Home preparation of meals can significantly reduce costs, allow for leftovers, guarantee you know all ingredients included, and is the healthiest meal prep method.

Contact your Registered Dietitian at the Office for the Aging for more tips on helping you to save money on your groceries.

From the desk of UCOFA Registered Dietitian: Juanita Bryant, RDN, CD. Nutrition Consults are free to Ulster County Seniors 60 and over. Consults currently via phone with the UCOFA Registered Dietitian. To make a referral, please call 845-340-3456.

Cut Added Sugars

- Choose water, fat-free milk, or unsweetened tea or coffee instead of sodas, sports drinks, energy drinks, and fruit drinks.
- Reduce sugar in recipes. If a recipe says 1 cup, use 2/3 cup.
- To enhance flavor, add vanilla, cinnamon, or nutmeg.
- Eat fresh, canned, frozen, and dried fruits without added sugar. Choose fruits canned in their own juice rather than syrup.
- Use fruits to top foods like cereal and pancakes rather than sugars, syrups, or other sweet toppings.
- Read the ingredients list to pick food with little or no added sugar.
- Use the Nutrition Facts label to choose packaged foods with less total sugar.
